

SAYS HE DIDN'T

PUT MOTHER OUT
Frank Stenson Denies Driving Aged Relative From Family Home, and Hearing is Adjourned to Wednesday—Sister Says He Didn't Strike Wife—Other Cases.

Frank Stenson was arrested at 4:50 o'clock this morning by Policeman Jacob H. Aley, who stated in his report of the arrest that Stenson had put his aged mother out on the street, and when the officer asked him to take her back he ordered Aley out of the house. Later Stenson is alleged to have left the house and struck Joseph Adin, the milk dealer. He was busy loading his milk wagon. Stenson was then arrested by Officer Aley.

Later in police court Stenson informed Judge Schirick that there was no truth in the statement that he had driven his mother out of the house, and he entered a plea of not guilty.

John Setera arrested on complaint of his wife, Mrs. Victoria Setera of that Saturday her husband struck her with his fist leaving marks on her nose and forehead, was arraigned before Judge Schirick and said he did not attack her.

John Finnegan of Shandaken was picked up Sunday morning by Officer Harmon who found him panhandling. As this was the first time John has been arrested, the judge

This morning a young woman who said her name was Betty Bonnie of New York, and, who had been stopping at the Whispering Pines, was picked up intoxicated on West strand by James Finnerty. She will be arraigned Tuesday in police court.

"Best man we've got"

RIGHT now that fellow is talking with a prospect two hundred miles away. In a few minutes he may be quoting prices, explaining delivery dates or describing new merchandise to a customer in another distant town.

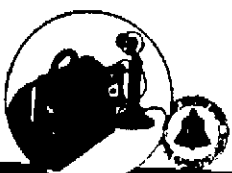

"Like all successful salesmen he covers his territory in the usual way, but when he gets out among the trade he always uses Long Distance for covering the towns adjacent to the key cities—and he picks up some mighty good orders as a result."

Thousands of salesmen use Long Distance to go after business because of its great efficiency and economy. But Long Distance is more than a medium of selling—it is an instrument for accelerating and simplifying your business and social affairs.

Indispensable—that's the word that best describes Long Distance!

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

"Our orders received daily via telephone toll lines have increased 1200% during the past year, solely because our customers realize that our prices are more favorable as a result of the use of telephone service for order taking purposes."

MANY HUNTERS WERE SHOT

Most Accidents Resulted From Accidental Discharge of Guns—Percentage of Fatalities Smaller Than Last Year.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 26.—Twenty persons killed and seventy-seven injured was the record of casualties for the 1923 hunting season up to and including November 15 according to reports received by the conservation commission.

The number of accidents this year was unusually large, the number injured being nearly twice as large as a year ago when forty injuries were reported, and the number killed was four more than a year ago. The percentage of fatal accidents was smaller than last year, this year's percentage being 26 as compared with forty last year.

There was one less fatality and four more injuries among deer hunters this year than last.

Accidents resulting from the accidental discharge of firearms were the most numerous, resulting in five deaths and thirty injuries.

Three persons were killed and 26 injured while hunting birds, and two were killed and one injured hunting ducks.

Squirrel hunting accounted for one killed and two injured and rabbit hunting, three killed and six injured.

Two deaths and two injuries occurred outside the actual hunting field, but were closely associated with hunting. One man was killed at target practice after a hunting trip, and another was killed by boys playing with a gun left loaded after hunting. Two men were injured as a result of hunters shooting on posted ground. A hunter was arrested and shot by a deputy sheriff. He claimed the shooting was accidental.

The deputy sheriff shot him, claiming that he fired in self defense.

An unusually large number of serious accidents occurred during the first week of the season before the leaves fell, the hunters in many instances firing at a moving object in the cover and hitting a hunter instead of game.

Masculine Person Bedecked.

In the earliest civilization men of wealth and position decorated themselves all they could. Tut-Ankh-Amen's gem-studded sandals of pure gold were by no means unique; on the contrary, they were merely fair samples of the kind of footgear every Egyptian king sported as a matter of course, and the nobles of Egypt, Babylon, Assyria, Media, Persia, Lydia and Etruria indulged themselves with all the adornments their artisans could produce, as far as they could afford them.

| Christmas Eve At Grandma's (Description Novelty)
A record for the kiddies. They will be delighted when they hear Santa Claus and the sleigh bells. The grownups will enjoy this, too.
413 Yuletide Belles (Vocal with Orchestra)
Christmas hymns and carols.
I've Got A Song For Sale (That My Sweetie Turned Down) (Fox Trot)
If you like real jazz, here is a record that will get you. A marvel of syncopation.
414 Cry Baby (Fox Trot)
The bit of the musical comedy success, "Helen of Troy, New York." A perfect dance number, perfectly recorded.
Just A Girl That Men Forget (Waltz)
Placed with plenty of true romantic spirit by Arthur Lange's Orchestra.
401 A Girl Is Like Sunshine (Fox Trot)
From Earl Carroll's "Vanities of 1923." A beautiful melody, beautifully recorded.
Midnight Rose (Fox Trot)
In this record Rob Haring's Velveteen Orchestra has created a genuine hit.
419 Where Rainbows End (Fox Trot)
Arthur Lange's Orchestra has surely done justice to this one. Played with vim and vivacity—it will keep your feet going.
Marcheta (A Love Song of Old Mexico) (Fox Trot)
A haunting melody, into which Rob Haring's Velveteen Orchestra has introduced that dreamy language so truly Mexican.
422 My Cherry Blossoms (Fox Trot)
Carnegie you right to the Orient. The long-tones and other effects so characteristic of the Far East have been superbly recorded by Arthur Lange's Orchestra.
Cold, Cold Winter Blues (Vocal Blues)
The inimitable combination of Lucille Hegamin's charming voice, accompanied by the Dixie Dancers.
415 Dina (Vocal Blues)
Lucille Hegamin and the Dixie Dancers again. A dandy "blues" record. | Stittin' In A Corner (Fox Trot)
Played by Rob Haring's Velveteen Orchestra. The rhythm is perfect.
420 Oh! Joe (Fox Trot)
In this number the Variety Eight have again proved that when college men play dance music, it's dance music.
Somebody's Wrong (Fox Trot)
Rob Haring's Velveteen Orchestra has injected every known instrument into this recording, including two violins with a "slanting" man.
421 If I Knew You Then As I Know You Now (Fox Trot)
A snappy dance number. There's lots of animation to it—and beauty, too.
Mamma Goes Where Papa Goes (Or Papa Don't Go Out Tonight) (Fox Trot)
In this record the Dixie Dancers have given you a capital "blues" number.
418 Oh Sister Ain't That Hot (Fox Trot)
Another peppy "blues" number, played in a fast manner by the Dixie Dancers.
Ever' Night I Cry Myself To Sleep Over You (Tenor Solo)
Reproducing the beautiful tenor voice of William Robyn in all its rare, rich quality.
416 Pretty Peggy (Tenor Solo)
Another William Robyn number. From Earl Carroll's "Vanities of 1923."
What Do You Do Sunday, Mary? (Fox Trot)
From "Poppy," the New York musical comedy success. As big a hit as the show.
417 'Neath Egyptian Skies (Fox Trot)
If you like to dance, this dreamy, fanciful tune will surely appeal to you.
Somewhere A Voice Is Calling (Tenor Solo)
At Dawning (I Love You) (Tenor Solo)
Sung with true feeling by William Robyn.
388 Melody In F (Cello Solo)
The Swan (Le Cello Solo)
278 Adagio Fidelis (Come All Ye Faithful) (Male Quartette) |

The Business Car That's Also a Family Car

The extraordinary utility of the Buick five-passenger four-cylinder Touring Car makes this model particularly suited to serve the needs of business. Its rugged chassis and powerful valve-in-head engine insure uninterrupted service. Its proved Buick four-wheel brakes make this car more than ordinarily safe to drive. Yet with all of its advantages, the Buick Four Touring Car is very low in first cost, in upkeep costs; and is as satisfying for family use as for business purposes.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 26, 1923.

THE TROLLEY ROAD WASTE.

The Kingston Consolidated Rail-road Company's application for authority to increase fares to 10 cents brings up once more a matter that should have been settled long ago. The company's reason for asking the increase is that it needs the money, which is probably true, but it is apparent that an increase in fare is not the remedy for that condition. If increased use of the automobile is one reason for the company's poverty, that cause will not be weakened by an increase in fare, tending to increase the use of the automobile. Nor will an increase in fare tend to decrease the number of persons who walk in preference to riding on the trolley cars.

The common council having surrendered whatever rights it had in the matter, cannot directly and effectively oppose the proposed increase in fare, as it formerly had the power to, but it can, nevertheless, aid in the only really effective means for the relief of the trolley company by consenting to the abandonment of the dead end of the Colonial division, which has always been operated at a loss. It can further aid by consenting to whatever plan may be made for further economy by changing the route and abolishing needless duplication of service by the two divisions of the trolley system.

The Colonial division was built as a competing line, a large portion of it paralleling the Broadway line in an effort to obtain a share of the business done by the older road. It never paid and since the two lines were consolidated it has been a burden too heavy for the Broadway line to carry. The entire system should be rearranged in such a way as to give the maximum of service at the minimum of expense. It is unreasonable to ask those who ride on the trolley cars to continue to pay excessive fare in order that those who seldom ride may have the pleasure of seeing the cars go by their homes. This whole matter of abandoning the Washington avenue dead end and rearranging the remainder of the trolley car system should be taken up at once and settled.

WILL BE INTERESTING.

Governor Smith's message to the Legislature of 1924 should be interesting. It will be remembered that during the session of 1923 he repeatedly announced that the Republican Assembly was blocking his recommendations and for that reason he could not carry out his promises. The governor made all the capital he could out of the opposition of the Republican majority, which did not hesitate to defeat many wild proposals that came from the executive chamber and other Democratic sources. It will also be recalled that the governor said he was elected because the people wanted his policies fulfilled.

Just what the governor will say in his 1924 message is causing considerable discussion among politicians who have had occasion to be in Albany since election. He can not, according to the opinion of many, attack the Republican majority for blocking the Democratic program of 1923 when the people by their votes approved the Republicans by electing more Republican members of Assembly this year than they did last, and in the face of all Republican members did to kill the Smith program. By the increase in the number of Republicans in the lower house proof is afforded that the people wanted the Smith scheme of government curtailed and that the voters elected additional Republicans to make it more certain that Smith's doubtful policies would not be advanced.

Offended by the scars on virgin nature's bosom made by man, the artist's eye too often overlooks the aim and the need. William James, the psychologist, related that once as he passed a number of clearings in the North Carolina mountains, filled with charred stumps and girdled leafless trees about the rude log cabins he was repelled, but when his mountaineer driver briefly suggested what these "coves" meant to the men bringing them under cultivation and making homes for their wives and children, the same clearings, which had suggested "ulcers" or "ugly pictures," became symbols "redolent with moral memories and sang paeans of duty, struggle and success."

Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root received the Nobel prize for services in the interest of peace. A. A. Michelson, T. W. Richards and A. Carrel received it for discoveries or inventions in physics, chemistry and medicine respectively. And now a seventh American, R. A. Millikan, has received it for his work in physics. No American has yet received it for achievement in literature or any of the arts, but the seeming partiality of the Swedish committee for Scandinavian candidates for the literary honor may be quite unconscious.

A Michigan man is quoted as saying that Henry Ford "may go into the White House a roaring lion but he will come out a shorn lamb"—presumably intending to give extravagant expression to the fact that responsibility tends to make conservatives out of radicals.

WHAT IS A NEURASTHENIC?

I was asked one day to tell in a word just what was meant by neurasthenia.

I was stumped. Years ago it was thought that a neurasthenic was one who though he has an ailment, where none really existed. Because he was on his feet, and at his work, it was felt that there couldn't be much wrong, and that therefore he imagined that he was ill. Very little sympathy was given to him. In fact sympathy was considered inadvisable as it was felt that he would thus nurse and magnify his imaginary ailments. Later it was thought that if a person really thought he had an ailment he suffered just as much as if he had it, and was therefore entitled to consideration and treatment.

Nowadays it is felt that a neurasthenic is just a real tired out person.

Tired of work, tired of play, tired of everything.

Now how do you feel yourself when you're tired? Nothing suits you. You find fault with everybody and everything.

Further, any little pain seems like a big one. Every little difficulty looms very large indeed on your horizon. You are cross and irritable, and say and do things of which you are heartily ashamed later.

Now what has this to do with neurasthenia and neurasthenics? Simply then, that a neurasthenic is a tired person. Not like yourself, just occasionally, but tired all the time.

From the moment he opens his eyes in the morning until he retires at night his entire thought, speech, and actions reflect this tired condition.

And yet as I said before, because he is on his feet, is able to eat and to work, and has really no organic trouble, he has been thought that his troubles were all imaginary.

And so what is really the necessary treatment? Just what you get yourself when you're tired. A real rest and change.

If he can get away from work and worry to a place where he can rest a good part of the day, see new places and faces, along with sufficient light exercise outdoors to ensure a natural sleep, and a natural appetite, he becomes a normal man again.

ULSTER AND DELAWARE R. R. EXTENDS BLOCK SYSTEM

The Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company has installed the Manual block system from Phoenix to Kortright station and in a short time the system will be completed to Oneonta, thus providing greater safety over the entire line. An automatic block system has been in operation from Kingston to Phoenix for about ten years and this will be continued, the new system operating only from that point to Oneonta.

The new system will require the services of an extra operator at Stamford and several other stations of the system.

ODD SEA MONSTER IS FOUND

It is Eight Feet Long and Resembles an Elephant Without a Trunk and a Whale.

There has been exhibited in Buenos Aires what South American scientists believe to be a hitherto unknown sea monster, captured some twenty-five miles from the coast near Mar del Plata. It was at first supposed to be a shell-less sea turtle, but expert examination shows this is not the case.

It resembles rather an elephant without a trunk, or more properly, an enormous elephant's head with ears almost perfectly identical with those of that animal. It also has some features similar to those of a whale. Its color is brown, the mouth is large and spherical.

It is nearly eighty feet long and approximately four and a half feet in diameter. It has two vertical fins behind, one above and one below remotely suggesting the screws of a propeller. The flesh is almost as elastic as rubber.—Living Age.

HORSE PASSING IN MARYLAND

Retiring From Transportation Field at the Rate of One and One-Half Per Cent a Year.

Old Dobbin is retiring from the transportation field on the state roads at rate of 1½ per cent a year.

Traffic tests taken on the main arteries of the state roads system show that he is exactly 1.45 per cent weaker as a competitor to the motor driven vehicles that he was last year. The tests covering 48 hours were taken recently. In the old days when horse-drawn traffic was supreme on the roads Sunday was his big day. The recent Sunday tests show now that on 24 roads the horse-drawn vehicular traffic was only 82-100 of 1 per cent of the entire traffic. Dobbin's big day is Tuesday. Then he can claim only 4.98 per cent of the entire traffic.—Baltimore News.

Record Mountain Climbing.

A record of climbing 36 mountains at the rate of one every day has been made by a California schoolmaster. On a camping trip in Glacier National park, Norman Clyde of Weaverville, Cal., set out to reach the tops of as many peaks as possible in the shortest space of time, and, according to the bureau of national parks, his total of 36 is unique. The last peak climbed by Clyde was Mount Wilbur, the summit of which is almost 10,000 feet. Clyde, who is thirty-eight, has had long experience in mountain climbing as a member of the Sierra club of San Francisco. He claims that evidence shows him to have been the first to attain the summit of 11 mountains.

Peace-Time Use for Airplanes.

Immense icebergs drifting down from the high North like castles of glistening silver are blocking the harbor of Old Fort Bay, an ancient French-Canadian fishing place on the coast of Labrador. In some way the fifty inhabitants have notified the government of Canada that they are starving. Colonel "Billy" Bishop, V. C., the man who brought down 82 German planes during the war, is going to take food to the people off there. There you have a good peacetime use for an airplane and an able aviator.

Kept Coal in Eye.

A sliver of coal which has been imbedded in the eye of Jesse A. Wright of Seaford, Md., for 35 years has finally worked its way out. Mr. Wright was operating a cannery house at Choptank, Md., in 1888, when a terrific explosion occurred, wrecking the place and seriously injuring him. A short time ago his eye began troubling him. A physician treated him and removed a fragment of coal from his eye.—Atlanta Constitution.

Called For.

"Willie!"
"Yes, mamma."
"What in the world are you pinching baby for? Let him alone!"
"Oh, I ain't doin' nothin'! We're only playing autos, and he's the horn!"
—Boston Post.

Fully Informed.

"Does your husband tell you what he does with his money?"
"He doesn't have to tell me," replied the woman with a weary expression. "He reads and talks about nothing but horse races."

Modern Improvements.

The mother sang in days ago
A cradle song.
Oh, that was long ago.
The phonograph she now turns on
And trots along
To see the movie show.

Convenient Relatives.

He—It wouldn't be much trouble for us to marry. My father is a minister, you know.
She—Well, let's have a try at it, anyway. My dad's a lawyer.—Mass. Tech. Voo Doo.

Great Help.

"I want a tall trombone player."
"Why tall?"
"Well, you know orchestra space is limited. If the trombone player is tall he can play over the head of the feller in front of him."

Experienced.

"Why don't you get out and hustle? Hard work never killed nobody." Mose Lazebones—"Dat's an infernal lie, suh! I's lost four wives dat way."—Baltimore Times.

ALBANY HOST TO 7,000 TEACHERS

Every Hall and Other Meeting Place in City Needed For Sessions of State Teachers' Association, Just Beginning.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, Nov. 26.—Upwards of 7,000 school teachers are in Albany today for the opening of the New York State Teachers' Association. There is every indication the convention will be one of the most successful in the history of the association.

A demonstration of physical education will be given in the state armory in Washington avenue by Albany pupils this afternoon.

Governor Alfred E. Smith and Payson Smith, commissioner of education of Massachusetts, will address the teachers in the armory tonight. Dr. Smith will speak on "Some Higher Objects of Education."

Dr. Frank P. Graves, state education commissioner and Glen Frank, editor of the Century Magazine, are scheduled to speak at the public meeting tomorrow. Mr. Frank's subject will be "Can Western Civilization Be Salvaged?"

U. S. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is scheduled to address the teachers on Wednesday. Major General Robert L. Bullard, another of Wednesday's speakers, will have for his subject "Physical Education and Discipline as an Adjunct to National Defense."

Because of the large attendance, every hall and meeting place in the city will be occupied by the teachers. Virtually every unoccupied committee room in the state capitol, including the senate and assembly parlors, will be turned over to the teachers for their sessions. A half dozen churches also have offered their auditoriums to the teachers.

Legislation in which teachers are vitally interested will be discussed. Plans will be made to have representatives at the state capitol during the coming session of the legislature.

BILL PAYS

By MARY MORGAN WARE

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"SHADES of Cleopatra!" Mariel apostrophized herself in the mirror. "They say you look like Great Aunt Myra. An insult to the dresser, her chin cupped in her hands, and studied her features. She admitted that her features were like auntie's. Visioning Aunt Myra's portrait, Mariel shook out her hair, and soon had an elaborate coiffure of yestern times. They were right; she did look like auntie.

Glancing around the littered room, her eye caught a discarded rose-colored frock. She seized it, and slipped it on. The transformation was amazing.

"Mariel Mason," she continued the monologue, "I didn't suppose you had it in you. No wonder you haven't had a chance. Perhaps it isn't too late."

Mariel had just assisted at an elaborate wedding, with its litter of rice, confetti and old shoes. She had even helped with the tying of endless yards of white satin ribbon.

Mariel had been bridesmaid to her schoolmates, and now she was just a handy servant and stop-gap for the younger set.

She was tired of it. Tired of hearing: "Oh, let Mariel do it. She won't mind." Her tired, rather bored expression covered a volcano of emotion all ready to erupt. She wondered rebelliously how it would seem to be the central figure of any kind of a celebration, even a birthday party.

Mariel removed the rose frock, folded it carefully, and put it into her traveling bag. Then she restored her hair to its former ugly fashion.

She had always said that clothes had nothing to do with one's looks. Now she was fully convinced that while fine feathers may not make birds, they certainly have considerable to do with making fine looking birds.

Mariel finished packing her traveling bag. She had forgotten that she was tired.

She announced at the tea table that she was going on a vacation. With an exaggerated air of unconcern she helped herself to cakes. Her decision was so sudden that it quite took Brother Tom and his wife by storm. Mariel was not in the habit of making unexpected moves.

"You will be home in time to help at Bessie Alden's birthday party, I suppose," inquired Laura. Laura was Brother Tom's wife.

"No," answered Mariel shortly. "I am not going to celebrate any more weddings, or birthdays, unless they are my own."

Tom and Laura were no more astonished at Mariel's crisp reply than she herself was. However, she was resolved to live up to it.

When Mariel arrived in the city she lost no time in finding a good boarding house. Then she went on a shopping expedition; one purchase was an expensive-looking near-diamond ring, which she slipped on her engagement finger.

Time sped swiftly while she was getting used to this new side of herself, and two weeks passed before she wrote to Laura, giving her address. After that she wrote only brief notes, far apart, containing vague references to Bill, who was giving her such a good time. One letter contained this paragraph:

"I never before realized what a wonderful fellow Bill is. He will give me anything I want, take me anywhere I wish to go, and he patiently awaits all my whims. I certainly shall give him an awful trial."

Mariel had a wonderful vacation and made a lot of new friends. But after several weeks a longing for home could not be wholly suppressed.

She received a letter from Laura asking when she was coming back. She packed her trunk and turned her steps homeward.

Mariel well knew that the home circle was due for a shock. She was marcelled, massaged and befrilled, and looked at least ten years younger than when she went away. She had renewed her mind as well as her wardrobe, and looked on life from a new point of view.

The taxi drew up to the curb. There was no one in sight, but it seemed to Mariel that the house wore a festive air. She let herself in quietly, only to find herself in the midst of a dinner party.

"Hello, folks," cried Mariel, atrilly. "Are you gathered together in honor of me? How did you know the prodigal was returning?"

There was a medley of voices. "Sure! Look! Listen! The prodigal has returned!"

Dolly Bolton bounced on Mariel, raising her left hand to the gaze of the party.

"Oh, look! She's got an engagement ring!" shrieked Dolly.

Mariel blushed furiously, and looked very guilty as she let the statement pass undisputed. She withdrew her hand, and to cover her embarrassment, began to smooth and fold the bills she had left since paying for the taxi.

"Who gave you the ring, Mariel?" demanded Dolly. "Is it anyone I know?"

"Yes, Bill," murmured Mariel. "Bill?" rejoined Dolly. "Bill who? And I suppose he gave you the heck-lace, and the wrist watch?"

"Yes," said Mariel reluctantly. She slipped the bills ostentatiously, and put them in her handbag. "Yes," she said, more decisively, "yes, Bill gave them to me."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE STRAY HEIFER

It was early, early in the autumn and the young heifer had wandered off for adventures.

The young heifer thought she was quite big enough for that. She was no longer a baby calf. She was almost a full-grown cow.

Ah yes, she was big now and she was strong and she was wise and she knew how to take care of herself. And adventures would be such fun!

To wander and then to wander some more would be very, very delightful. It was a good old world, so full of interests, so much to see, so much to discover.

Now the young heifer belonged to a farmer who owned a good many animals. He was very fond of all of his animals. He had cows and he had sheep and he had pigs and he had hens and roosters. Oh, there were plenty of animals on the farm, and there were horses, too, and dogs and cats. It was, in short, a splendid farm.

It was far, far away from where people lived though, and even the farms which were nearest to his farm were not near any large place. No, in this section there were not many towns and those towns which there were had in them but few people. It was very, very far north.

Already it was becoming chilly. But the heifer wandered and wandered and before long the heifer felt very tired and very lonely. Ah yes, adventures were all very well but when it became chilly and night came along it was nice to have a nice lot of friends and relatives and members of the family about.

And the heifer began to feel quite sad. In the distance she heard some sounds—sounds which were familiar to her, talk which she understood.

And she thought that she would go in the direction of those sounds and listen to talk she understood. This silence about her was beginning to make her quite nervous.

So she went in the direction of the sounds, even though she was tired, and even though she hated to walk any more. But it would be worth the extra walk and the extra tired feeling if she could be where there would be companions.

On and on she trudged, poor weary young heifer that she was. And at last she came to another farm. There were none of her own family about, but there were animals of her own kind and friends she could feel at home with, and it was happiness to be there. Everyone welcomed her, a little shyly at first, but she was welcomed.

It was a joy to the heifer to be welcomed.

There was a new farmer here, one she had never seen before, but he, too, was nice to her. He seemed surprised at first to see her, but he treated her as one of the family in no time at all.

Day after day she stayed upon this farm, and the days went into weeks as days have a habit of doing which they've never broken themselves. And the weeks went into months. Yes, two months had gone by since the heifer had gone off for adventures. But she had not forgotten what her own family looked like. Nor had she forgotten what the farmer looked like. Nor had she forgotten what the farmer's wife and the farmer's son and the farmer's daughter looked like. And one day they all appeared upon the new farm.

"Yes," said her new master, "I couldn't understand it for a long time. And then I knew she must have wandered off from some other farm. She must have come a roundabout way for there are nearer farms than yours."

"I thought at first she had come from one of those nearer farms and went to find out. But she hadn't and then I couldn't imagine where she had strayed from."

"It was good of you to take her in and give her a home and now be willing to give her back to me," the heifer's real master said.

"Well, she made herself so at home that we began to feel she belonged to us."

The heifer went back though to her old home. It was good to be back and yet she had been treated well while she had been away. But oh, it was fun to feel such an unusual heifer—to have been away on a two months' visit. No other heifer could say as much. She didn't care to go again, but she was glad she had had such an unusual experience!

WHAT TO EAT

Canned corn is such a wholesome vegetable and is so well liked that a few dozen ears put on the cellar shelf will be enjoyed during the winter. After serving the corn with butter, cream and seasoning of salt and pepper, if any is left over make some fritters to serve with the fried chicken.

Peas a la Francaise.—Cook three tablespoonsful of butter with one slice of bacon for five minutes; remove the bacon and add two cupsful of peas and eight small peeled onions. Cover with boiling water and cook until the vegetables are soft. Drain, add one-fourth of a cupful of cream and one egg yolk slightly beaten. Season well with salt and pepper.

Mushroom Soup.—Brush one-half pound of mushrooms, break cups into small pieces and chop the stems. Add to three pints of chicken broth, bring it gradually to the boiling point and let simmer thirty minutes. Cool and clear with the whites and shells of two eggs. Season to taste and serve hot.

A platter of overlapping slices of cold roast beef may be garnished with rounds of hot cooked spinach in which is placed a seasoned poached egg—the whole finished with a border of watercress.

Al a Potato Salad.—Cut cold boiled potatoes into one-half-inch cubes. Take one and one-half cupsful. Add three chopped hard-cooked eggs, one and one-half tablespoonsful of chopped pimento, one-half tablespoonful of finely chopped onion. Moisten with a cream salad dressing and serve in nests of lettuce.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.—Try on fat salt pork cut into small cubes and remove the scraps; there should be one-third of a cupful of fat. Add two cupsful of cold boiled potatoes finely chopped, pepper and salt if needed. Mix potatoes thoroughly with the fat, cook three minutes, stirring constantly, then let stand to brown underneath. Fold as an omelette and turn out on a hot platter.

THE WEEK AT RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Miss Loskamp at Atlantic City—A Successful Fair.

Miss Virginia Loskamp, soloist and director of the Rondout Presbyterian Church choir, is at Atlantic City for her health. She had developed a bad cold which prevented her from singing at the services on Sunday, November 18, and also November 25, when the solos were sung by Miss Jane Hutton at the morning service and Miss Mildred Messinger at the vesper service.

Miss Snow, teacher of music in the city grammar schools, played the opening prelude at the vesper service Sunday.

The annual fair and turkey dinner held last week by the Ladies' Aid Society was one of the most successful ever held and while full returns are not in as yet it is expected that over $1,000 will be cleared. Mrs. Harry P. Lauren is president of the society.

There will be a regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society on Wednesday afternoon, December 5. A large attendance is desired as there will be a demonstration of a new vacuum cleaner and several important business matters are to be considered.

The Westminster Guild meets this evening in the chapel. The Guild will take up their new study book, "Japan and the Upward Trail," and the first program will be "Introduction and Sara Criss Gage will present a dramatic sketch of Japanese home life, "Then and Now."

There will be no evening service chapel. The Ushers' Club are selling tickets for the annual entertainment to be held in the chapel on December 14.

JEWISH FEAST OF ILLUMINATION

Chanukah, known as the Feast of Illumination and by other titles of similar intent, will be celebrated in Jewish circles for eight days, beginning on the evening of December 2d, and ending December 10th.

The following descriptive notice of the Chanukah Festival is issued by the Educational Tract Commission, composed of representatives of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The origin of this festival dates from the stirring historical events connected with the uprising of the Maccabees in the year 165 B. C. E., when Antiochus Epiphanes, the Syrian ruler, sought to impose his religion on the subject peoples of his vast dominions. Under the banner of the Maccabees, as they were called, Judah, a son of Mattathias, a Jewish leader, and his sons rallied a small band of followers who rebelled against the Syrians. Warfare ensued and by a series of victories the few and feeble overpowered the mighty army sent out against them by the Syrian tyrant.

The feast of Chanukah is celebrated today in a spirit of rejoicing. Following the precedent of centuries lights are kindled in the homes. One candle the first night, increasing the number till the eighth. In home and religious school an effort is made to remind the present generation of the fervor of their illustrious ancestors who played God above all and fealty to His law as the greatest consecration to which man could be dedicated.

To the Jewish people of this generation Chanukah reaffirms their abiding faith in God's justice. For it is in and through history that God's justice is revealed. Thus the Jewish people feel that God must prevail since it is He who breaks the bows of mighty men and girds with strength those who stumble.

There is no special service in the synagog to celebrate this day but there are additional scriptural readings and a special prayer that is recited on the Sabbath of the festive week of Chanukah in which the worshippers recall the mighty miracles and victories wrought in their behalf in the days of Mattathias and his sons.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed safe, factor in treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE MEETING

The executive committee of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign will meet Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock.

The Salvation Army officer in charge of the Hudson river division staff Capt. Bertram C. Rodda, accompanied by divisional secretary, Adjutant Thomas E. Nicholls will be present at this meeting.

Chairman Morris Block has urged the members of the executive committee to attend this meeting 100 per cent strong, and it is expected that the full committee will be there. Mr. Block stated that it was the aim of the Salvation Army here in Kingston to take care of the man or woman who nobody else cared about, and that it is our solemn duty to assist them in their noble work.

The purpose of the street meeting is perhaps lost on most people and requires some explanation. The idea is to conduct a religious service on the street corner accompanied by music, trusting that some wandering soul may be attracted to it and follow down to the hall or chapel, where the service is continued and there receive solace and comfort.

Since the war the Salvation Army has become popular, due to their splendid war record. The reason that they were so successful in that particular field was because they had been doing that particular kind of work for over 45 years before the war. It has never been the policy of the Salvation Army to give publicity to the numerous appeals for help, and the assistance rendered, in fact it would be impossible, for by so doing they would betray the confidence and trust and destroy the most vital foundation of the Salvation Army, which is service.

It takes a great amount of patience, endurance and forbearance to drag out of the depths a man, perhaps time and again before he reaches the place where he is on his feet for good. The majority of people might perhaps do it once or twice or perhaps three times—but after that would throw up their hands in despair and let it go at that. The Salvation Army officer figures that neither time nor trouble count when the saving of a soul is at stake.

The Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign will run from December 3rd to 8th inclusive. It is hoped that as a result of this appeal the sum of $7,000 will be raised. This is necessary for the support of the Salvation Army in Kingston for the coming year. The public is asked to remember when they make their donation to the party who calls for it—that it is a yearly one.

Masonry of the Swallows.

Why mention the swallows, which, out of far Africa, as I learned, thread their way over seas and mountains, corporate cities and belligerent nations, yearly found themselves, with the month of May, singly lodged in our cottage lobby? Thomas Carlyle wrote in "Sartor Resartus." The hospitable father (for cleanliness' sake) had fixed a little bracket plumb under their nest; there they built and caught flies and twittered and bred; and all, I chiefly, from the heart loved them. Bright, nimble creatures, who taught you the mason craft; nay, stranger still, gave you a masonic incorporation, almost social policy (for if, by ill chance, and when time pressed, your house fell, have I not seen the neighborly helpers appear next day, and swarming to and fro, with animated, loud, long-drawn chirrups and activity almost superhuman, complete it again before nightfall?

Love's Tragedy.

The little boy next door and I were very much in love. Late one afternoon we decided to get married. All the dolls were dressed in their nicest clothes and the big teddy bear was propped up ready to perform the ceremony when I happened to ask my love what our name would be. He replied, "Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rockwell." I told him I liked Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Moore much better. He ventured another suggestion, and then the argument grew hot and advanced through the halting stage into violence. Finally we were both soundly spanked and put to bed without any supper. Many tears were shed that night over my first love affair and its tragic outcome.—Chicago Journal.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister. Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole, 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

A THANKSGIVING UNION SERVICE

The annual union Thanksgiving Day services of the evangelical churches of Kingston will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis of the Roundout Presbyterian Church, will preside and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Lucas Boeve of the First Dutch Church. The Ushers' Club of the Roundout Presbyterian Church will have charge of the ushering and collection of the offering, which, as usual, will be for the Industrial Home. Harold S. Brigham, bass soloist of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, will sing the offertory.

CLOCKS THAT TICK WANTED

Germans Found African Native Cases Little Whether It Keeps Time or Not.

The German may lack the dash and pluck of a Briton to jump against heavy odds—and take a chance to win or lose all. But in even the pettiest of undertakings every angle of the trade problem is pondered and weighed, to eliminate the risk of loss.

In so trifling a trade item as egg cups, the Germans ascertained that hens in India laid smaller eggs than their sisters in Europe, and put out special egg cups for the Indian hotel and mess trade that fit exactly, says London T. H. Bitt.

To these German trade scouts also the Indian religious calendars became objects of closest scrutiny. They learned which were the feast days when natives commonly made presents to one another; and just what sort of articles were in demand at such times of the year—and imported accordingly.

In one African district cheap British alarm clocks had been in use for years. Suddenly sales fell off—and German clocks took the lead. Why? Because the Germans, after painstaking study, had found that whether a clock kept time or not made small difference to the jungle folk. What they really enjoyed was hearing the clock tick!

Having found this secret, the Germans brought the natives a nice shiny clock with a powerful tick—a tick so loud that it fairly flooded the leafy forest with its rasping voice—and every body was happy except the British traders.

Such is the methodical, prodigiously patient, and incessantly industrious German business man.

FIND DUCK-SHAPED POTTERY

Explorers Unearth Rare Relics of the Pueblo Indians in Southwestern Colorado.

Two important pieces of pottery of unusual historic interest made by the Pueblo Indians were unearthed in southwestern Colorado this summer by a state museum expedition party headed by Frank H. H. Roberts, associated with Curator J. Allard Jeancon of the state museum in archeological exploration work, says the Rocky Mountain News.

The pottery is in the shape of a duck and was used by the Pueblo Indians in their religious ceremonies. So far as is known, this is the first shard of its kind discovered, and is valued for that reason.

"Southwestern Colorado is a vast storehouse of treasure for the archeologist," Roberts says, "and is scarcely scratched as yet."

Roberts says the apartment house, supposedly a product of modern American efficiency and ingenuity, was used by the Pueblo Indians long before the supremacy of the white man had been established. A high type of civilization prevailed among the cliff-dwelling Indians, comparing favorably in some respects to that which exists today.

Relics revealing Pueblo Indian civilization in its earliest stages were discovered at Montezuma mesa. Some of the earliest dwelling sites were examined carefully and information of great historic value was obtained.

Doom of the Rivet Tossers.

Blowing red-hot rivets through a hose of metal is replacing the old rivet tosser and the boy with the catching can as a means of transportation. The new apparatus is known as the "Pentite rivet gun" and consists of a galvanized metal tank with a connection welded to the side for the air supply line. The discharge valve is opened by a movement of a steel rod attached to the treadle. A metal receiver with a buffer block is at the discharge end of the conveyor tube. This prevents the plastic rivet from being deformed when suddenly arrested upon reaching the end of its run.

Gentle Hint.

"Is that clock right?" asked the caller who had overstayed his welcome. His hostess yawned. "Oh, no!" she said. "That's the clock we always call the visitor." The obdurate one sat down again. "The visitor?" he remarked. "What a curious name for a clock!" His hostess ventured an explanation. "You see," she said, "we call it that because we can never make it go!" And even then he failed to see the point.

Making Him Happy.

"What have you there?" asked the proprietor of the fashionable mountain hotel.

"Another letter from that chump who has been writing us for rates." "Well, let's see if we can't make him happy. Offer him our best suite for ten a week."

"But—" "And add the postscript that the hotel is closed."

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Nov. 26.—Thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist Church Wednesday evening, November 28, at 7:30 o'clock. The members of Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will attend in a body. Addresses will be given by the Rev. Martin Luther, pastor of the Reformed Church, and the Rev. Charles G. Gorse, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Hope Temple, No. 80, Pythian Sisters, will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in its rooms on Broadway.

The second annual masquerade ball of Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, was held in Pythian Hall Friday evening. Although the weather was inclement, the hall was filled with merry faces. The music for dancing, furnished by Zucca's orchestra of Kingston, was excellent. The electrical illuminated figures were beautiful. The ball was a decided success, both socially and financially. The committee in charge wishes to thank all who helped to make it such a grand success.

William Schweigel of Johnstown spent the week end at his home on Bayard street.

Thomas Tucker, Sr. of New York city is spending a few days at his home on Broadway.

COMMON DUST USED IN MINES

When It Is Mixed With That From Coal the Combination Is Nonexplosive.

Dust is generally regarded as an enemy rather than a friend, and housewives have always declared war on the little particles of matter that accumulate on their shelves, but some people deliberately collect dust and pile high on shelves. When a slight explosion occurs in a coal mine there may be no immediate damage done; but the rush of air caused by this small upheaval stirs the fine coal dust on the floor of the mine, whips it into the air and leaves it suspended; and coal dust, suspended in the air, is a deadly menace, for nothing promotes the spread of an explosion more quickly. In fact, the suspended dust becomes itself an explosive mixture, which, if ignited, could easily wreck the entire workings and cause a frightful calamity, observes the New York World.

But science has found that when coal dust in the air is mixed with other dust it becomes harmless. Therefore in the mines are shelves, and on the shelves are piles of dust collected from outside—ordinary dust, such as housewives sweep away. When a rush of air stirs the deadly coal dust it also stirs this harmless dust and mixes it with the coal; so that the air is no longer a source of danger. Inspectors visit the mines and take samples of the dust in the air and if the mixture is too nearly pure coal dust the owners are warned to put in more of the common article.

CENTIPEDES FROM TRINIDAD

London Zoo Is Given Two Specimens, Each More Than One Foot Long.

A pair of unfriendly looking centipedes from Trinidad have been presented to the London zoo. They are each more than a foot long and at the broadest part nearly half an inch across. They are dark brown, with rings on the long feelers and on the legs, a pair of which projects from each flattened segment of the body. These tropical centipedes live in shady places, hidden under bark, stones or dead leaves, moving chiefly at night. It has been shown that the whole of the body of these centipedes secretes a volatile venom, so that even the wounds made by the sharp claws are extremely painful. Under the surface of the head it carries a formidable pair of poison fangs, the venom of which escapes by a pore in the claw, being formed by large glands at the base of the claws. The venom is an acid opalescent liquid, hardly miscible with water. When injected into the veins of rabbits it produces instantaneous paralysis, with convulsion of the blood; when injected under the skin enormous abscesses are rapidly formed. The bite is very painful to human beings, but has not been known to be fatal, although it causes inflammation, local swelling and occasionally ulcers.

Regrets Passing of Grammar.

It is said that English grammar as we studied it has been discarded, writes Mitchell Bronk in Scribner's. I certainly have found nothing resembling it in the school work of my own children. The more's the pity!

A language has its anatomy, which must be mastered in order properly to manipulate that language. How we used to take apart and put together again and pound the meaning out of "Paradise Lost," and the selections from Shakespeare given in the back of "Brown's Grammar"—that grammar that was the law and the prophets of English language study in those days! "Parsing," it was called. But so the English speech became a wonderful and living, albeit useful, thing to us.

Fall Orchard Work Will Save Time Next Spring

Jobs large and small await the orchardist after the fruit crop is harvested, sold or stored. The more of them that can be completed before winter sets in, the easier it will be to get the spring work started next March and April.

Orchard sanitation, says A. Freeman Mason, fruit specialist of the New Jersey Agricultural college, is an important factor in the production of clean fruit. Hedgerows and trash form hiding places for the ubiquitous curculio, which hides away when the cold weather starts in. Burning these hedgerows kills large numbers of curculio and destroys their hiding places. If woodlots adjoining the orchard can be burned over without too much danger to the forest trees, curculio injury will be cut down on the bordering orchard trees next spring.

Grass and weeds should be removed from the base of young trees, and the earth dug up for a radius of from two to three feet, to break up the hiding places and burrows of mice. Cinders have been found to be beneficial when placed about the tree trunks to a depth of three or four inches. Painting trunks with lime-sulphur sludge and protecting with wire netting, cardboard, paper or veneer strips is also beneficial. Care should be taken that no tree trunks have slight basins about them, as the water collected in them will freeze and thaw during the winter and will perhaps kill the tree. A slight mound is advisable.

If paradichlorobenzene was used on three and four-year-old peach trees, the time has come to remove the mounds containing the repellent, replacing them with fresh earth. Young trees may be seriously injured if the paradichlorobenzene is allowed to remain about the roots over the winter. On older trees there is less danger of such injury. Here again care should be taken that no basins are left about the trunks.

As the pruning season is approaching, pruning equipment should be repaired and sharpened. This work may be started as soon as the leaves are off the trees. Some varieties of trees have lost their foliage already, and pruning work may be started on these varieties at once.

Questions Orchardist Is Vitally Interested In

When the season of fruit harvest approaches there are certain questions which the orchardist should ask himself, the fruit men at Cornell suggest. Here are some of them:

Have I looked through the orchards and made a careful estimate of the crop?

Have I ordered enough baskets and barrels to handle it?

Have I a sufficient supply of picking baskets and bags?

Have I enough step ladders to handle the peach harvest if we should get a few hot days and nights that would hasten the ripening just at harvest time?

How about those step ladders that were broken and those I was going to reinforce? I'd better get them in safe condition to use. It will cost less than to have to pay for a broken arm or leg, or possibly a neck, to say nothing about the loss of time in patching them up during the harvest. And the ladders for apple picking, how are they? There were several rungs out when I put them away last fall.

How about the old rack we haul the fruit from the orchard with? It needs repair. And that roadway to the orchard, just a few loads of gravel and a little leveling off would add a month to the length of time my fruit would keep in storage, to say nothing about appearance of that I plan to sell in the fall.

Pruning Grapes Before Winter Season Sets In

If grapes are to be fall pruned it should be done before freezing weather sets in, since the canes are brittle and do not cut well.

Remember, says C. V. Holminger, horticulturist at Iowa State college, that fruit is produced on new canes and do not cut them all off. Select canes about the size of a lead pencil which have plenty of buds and thrifty. Be careful in selecting vines to note that vines which are thrifty and producing considerable wood will not produce fruit. Grapes either produce wood or fruit and if too much wood is being grown cut back severely and it will force fruit.

Young vines should be pruned so that only one shoot is present and it will get the full benefit of the growth. Too many vines left will cause the vine to overbear, while too much cutting will force wood growth, so it is better to go at the job easily and determine the kind of vine being cut.

Keep Strawberry Bed Clean.

Keep the strawberry bed free of weeds and grass. Select the best plants at this time and transplant a few rows during September, but do not risk the bulk of your planting before cooler weather.

Vines Hide Ugly Places.

There are many "ugly places" where one or more grapevines would "hide an ugly place" and also produce a crop of grapes for home use or to sell. There are varieties of grapes suitable for every section.

Charles L. Craig

Essex County Prison

The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, upholding the 60-day sentence imposed upon Charles L. Craig, Comptroller of the City of New York, by Federal Judge Julius L. Mayer, has been followed by a demand for a revision of the laws under which judges may hold citizens in contempt of court. For making adverse criticism of Judge Mayer in a transit case in which the city was interested, Mr. Craig must leave his comfortable home in Riverside Drive, where he is pictured, and spend 60 days in this block of cells in the Essex County Jail, at Newark, N. J.

Coal Waste in Uncovered Pipes.

It is estimated that a ton of coal a year is wasted by each uninsulated hot-water tank in use in American homes. Greater economy is possible if all hot-water and hot-air pipes be insulated, preventing about four-fifths of this loss.

Ideas of Recreation.

One idea of rest is to do nothing, another is change of occupation and environment. Most people find it difficult to do nothing, and in recreation seek complete change, thus exemplifying the philosophy of living.

Sun, Moon and Earth.

If the sun were a hollow ball, and the earth and moon could be placed in the center in their relative positions, the moon could continue round the earth inside the sun and leave plenty of room to spare.

The Staff of Life.

If all the bread the average person eats in a year were baked in one loaf it would take three strong men to lift it and a horse to pull it. The weight of the loaf would be 307 pounds.

Mr. & Mrs. William E. Corey

Charging desertion, Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey has secured a Paris divorce from William Ellis Corey, millionaire American steel magnate, one of Andrew Carnegie's "boys." They were married in New York on May 17, 1907. Mrs. Corey was Corey's second wife, before her marriage to Mabelle Gilman, well-known actress. His first wife was Mabel Laurne Cook, of Pittsburgh, to whom he was married when he was making $40 a month. She worked hard for him and inspired him on the road to success. They had several children, but Corey is said to have believed his wife did not advance as he did. He settled $1,000,000 on her, and she divorced him. He had succeeded Charles M. Schwab as President of the United States Steel Corporation, but was forced to resign because of the publicity that followed his divorce and re-marriage.

Mrs. Charles L. Craig.

Mrs. Charles L. Craig, wife of the controller of the city of New York, who is under sentence to serve 60 days in the Essex county jail, Newark, N. J., for contempt of court in criticizing the actions of Federal Judge Julius L. Mayer, declared to reporters she would make every effort to gain permission to accompany her husband to jail. Failing that, she will take a cottage convenient to the jail to be near him.

POULTRY

Properly Prepare Fowls for Holiday Marketing

While November is generally regarded as turkey month, there is also a strong demand for fowls of all kinds and good prices can be realized for almost any kind if they are properly prepared for market.

In this connection it should be remembered that careful grading of poultry pays. All fowls should be assorted according to age and condition, size, color and shanks. Never mix good and poor stock in shipping to market, as the poor birds always reduce the value of the lot. In other words, uniformity of appearance and quality must be considered.

Poultry should be fattened quickly to be tender and juicy. If the fowls have been kept in good condition during the summer and fall, two weeks of liberal feeding should put them in excellent condition for marketing. After they have commenced to fatten give them all they can eat four or five times a day.

Turkeys ought not to be confined for any length of time, but for just a short time prior to marketing. If fed liberally while they have a free run, they can be put in condition for marketing within ten days.

This is the time of year when the chicken flock should be culled closely. The undesirable fowls will bring better prices now than later, and if kept throughout the winter will only be an expense and a detriment to the rest of the birds.

Uniformity in Fowls Is of Utmost Importance

For those who are breeding standard fowls it is essential that they look out for type in the first place, and not allow their flock to run to the dogs in this particular, as some we have seen recently.

What is a Rhode Island Red good for in the breeding yard if he has a short Wyandotte of Cochon back on him? You might just as well put him in the pot and be done with him, for he is worth more there than anywhere else. Then there is the Orpington standing upon shanks almost like a game. He is of good color, perhaps, but that is all you can say about him. No matter what breed you are attempting to breed or handle, your first duty to that breed and yourself is to get in line with the best possible type to be had. If you find that you do not have that kind, better get rid of them and get the right kind before you waste any more valuable time in experiments. Study the type that goes to make a good one of your kind, both in males and females, and get in line. Get the best color, of course, that is consistent with the right type, but get type at any cost first. Be sure you know your breed or variety as that is of the most importance. Work intelligently at all times, and you will be surprised how well things will go along.

Dealers Can Stop Much of Waste in Egg Supply

How the dealer can help stop the waste in eggs is pointed out on a poster recently issued by the extension service of Colorado Agricultural college, in line with a campaign for better quality. Dealers can help by:

Encouraging production of infertile eggs by paying more for them.

Packing eggs only in good cases, using new flats and fillers.

Placing excelsior pads on top and bottom of each case and not using any straw.

Keeping eggs in cool, dry place, away from kerosene and never allowing a shipment to stand in the sun.

Shipping at least once every other day, because holding eggs in temperatures above 60 degrees causes rapid deterioration.

Dried Whey Fed Laying Hens on Government Farm

New uses for dried whey are being revealed by a series of investigations by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Four pounds of crude sugar and 1 1/2 pounds of dried whey containing about 30 per cent of albumin were obtained from 100 pounds of whey. The dried whey was sold to a laboratory making baby food, at a price giving a satisfactory return for the whey.

Dried whey and dried buttermilk are being fed experimentally to laying hens at one of the department farms. In the first half of the twelve-month experiment the pen of hens receiving dried whey produced eggs at a rate comparing favorably with results obtained with other kinds of feeds.

Get Maximum Production of Eggs During Winter

If you are planning to add more pullets to your laying pens get them as soon as possible. In order to get the maximum production of eggs this winter. Just as a cow's milk production is decreased by moving her from one place to another, disturbing her routine, laying is delayed where pullets are disturbed by moving them from one farm to another or from their regular quarters. Disturbing pullets also retards growth.

Much False Hair in Anne's Reign.

In Queen Anne's reign a great part of the population flew under false colors and false hair. There were different kinds of wigs for different professions; perukes for the men of law; full bottomed wigs for merchants; long bobs and natty "scratches" for tradesmen and even for coachmen "the curled hair of a water dog." The historian Sydney thus describes the period: "These cumbersome and superfluous articles of attire were certainly not without advantage, seeing that a man of business could easily dispatch his wig to be dressed by a fieur in the next street, while he attended to the transaction of his affairs in his counting house. Wigs assumed all shapes and sizes. To one made very full and curled eighteen inches to the front which was imported from France the name 'Campaigu' was applied."

Durham Discovered.
 Durham university (England) students have just staged scenes from their history. Their pageant commenced with the traditional milking of the dun cow in the market square nearly 1,000 years ago. Then, with the aid of a giant microscope applied to pieces of rag, paper and stones, the "Elshop" announced the discovery of Durham. Terrified by threats of cruel torture, "King John" was compelled to sign Magna Charta. Grim-visaged knights carried braziers, hot coals, and irons, with which they tortured and put to death unwilling victims before the king's eyes. King John accordingly capitulated, and with a pen three yards long carried by two knights, and dipped into a receptacle in a milk float, he signed a parchment of vast dimensions.

Costly Cricket Ball.

What is probably the most costly cricket ball in the world is in the possession of a wealthy tradesman in Melbourne, Australia. It is mounted on ebony and shielded by a glass case, and its value is placed at $100, although five times that amount would not buy it. Its owner left England 30 years ago and arrived in Australia with $15 and the cricket ball, which had been presented to him by the members of a cricket club to which he had belonged. In the middle of the ball $100 was placed. The recipient of the gift promised that he would not open the ball until he was reduced to his last penny. On his arrival at Melbourne he obtained work, and from that day to this he has never been forced to rob the ball of its treasure.

Seneca on Scipio's Bath.

So long ago as the days of Seneca it was the practice of one age to criticize the bathing habits of its predecessors. Seneca, in one of his letters, describes a visit which he paid to a villa which had formerly belonged to the great Scipio; he waxed sentimental over the primitive bathing accommodations which he found there as compared with the luxury of his own age, says the Detroit News. Scipio's bathroom was dingy and dark, with plaster walls instead of marble; the water could be warmed, but there were no facilities for boiling oneself as in the days of Nero, nor was the water filtered; and indeed, says Seneca, when the streams were flooded, Scipio must have bathed in mud.

Cruise Isle's Two Black Sisters.

The Chilean islands of San Ambrosio and San Felix are mere pinpoints of rock in the Pacific ocean and never have been inhabited by man. About the only life which the islands support is that of a few stunted, desert shrubs and a few seals and sea birds, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. The islands were discovered in 1574 by the same Juan Fernandez who discovered and gave his name to the equally isolated land that later became "Robinson Crusoe's Island," 500

A Chapter in Her Life

From the famous story of "JEWELL"

By
Clara Louise Burnham

A TREMENDOUS CAST

Featuring Claude Gillingwater, Jane Mercer, Jacqueline Gadsden, Francis Raymond, Robert Brazier, Evelyn Thatcher, Ralph Yonkey, Fred Thomson, Beth Bayon.

One of the Sweetest Stories of Life Ever Told

Ask anyone who has read the story of "Jewell"; or if you have read it yourself, you know for a fact that few stories ever written can begin to compare with it in beauty, charm and wholesome entertainment. It's a vivid, powerful dramatization of a gripping theme that will hold you in its spell from beginning to end. Lavish sets, beautiful gowns, dramatic moments!

TOWN LIFE IN NEW REPUBLIC

Community Building in Czechoslovakia Includes Theater and Other Forms of Recreation.

Village life in Czechoslovakia is much fuller than the life on our main streets. As in most of Europe, the farmers do not live on isolated farms cut off by bad roads and weather from their neighbors, but after their work in the fields come back into town and have a real community life there—social, political meetings, dance and song festivals, school entertainments, outings, according to Viola I. Paradise and Helen Campbell in Scribner's.

In one village of only 1,200 inhabitants—a village consisting of a single street and down near the railroad station a malt factory owned co-operatively by the farmers in the village—was a community building erected a year ago with public funds—800,000 crowns. It had a theater, lecture rooms, a well-equipped gymnasium, baths, a large garden, an athletic field, an excellent coffee house and restaurant and a number of rooms in which visitors to the village could be accommodated—the whole building modern and attractive.

The day we visited this village a play for children was being given in the theater, preparations for a school lecture in the evening were being made, in the coffee house men were reading papers from all over the country or were playing billiards or chess. The opera from the nearest city was to come next evening.

STRETCH OUT BODY MUSCLES

Do as Animals Do if You Wish to Keep Fit, Advises Walter Camp.

I went to the Bronx zoo, and I watched the lions and tigers. I saw none of them standing and kicking out their legs 50 or 60 times for exercise. I did see them stretch the great body muscles a hundred times by getting hold of the bars of the cage and then stretching that great back, says Walter Camp in the World's Work. You find the same with the domestic animals.

Call your dog off the sofa; what does he do? The first thing after he has jumped down is to make one long stretch backward and forward, seeing that those muscles of his body are all right. He does this a hundred times a day. Are these simple exercises sufficient to keep one fit and strong? The answer to that question is another question: Would you dare open the door of the cage of one of these wild animals? And yet he may have been in that cage for six or eight years. If you were put in a twelve-foot cage for six or eight years you would be powerless, they can run and jump. They keep themselves fit by this stretching of the long muscles of the body.

Recession of an Old Master.

In London the other day a certain insurance company was requested by a firm of auctioneers to insure an oil painting for $500 ($2,250). It had been in the possession of an old English family for many years and was said to be very valuable. The insurance company officials had the oil painting cleaned in case identification should be required. The title submitted to the auctioneers was "A Storm at Sea." After the cleaning this title was amended to "Two Little Girls and a Dog." No value could be placed by either the company or the auctioneers upon the painting. Experts were called in and values were fixed all the way from $100 ($450) to $200 ($900). Finally the picture was sent to a firm of famous dealers who declared without reserve it was just worth 18 shillings ($4.82).—Insurance Press.

The New Lepus Cure.

The treatment with the ethylsters (of the Chaulmoogra or Hydrocarpus oil) seems the beginning of a solution of the, up till recently, hopeless problem of leprosy. "The doctor conducts a constant hand-to-hand struggle with the bacilli, fighting now one way and then another. It is worth it all. What a treat to go about our home now! They may have no toes, but you can see them stumping round as if they were hale and hearty. Instead of 60 or 70 daily dressings, now we have only 15, and these are largely new-comers." This is from Dr. Isabel Kerr, who is working among the lepers at Dichpall.

Always Safe.

A man was taking dinner at the home of a friend. The dinner consisted chiefly of hash, and on being offered some he refused. The host, not wishing to see his guest go hungry, insisted that he take some. Upon that the guest replied that he never ate hash, not even at home.

"Why is that?" asked the host. "Well," answered the other, "I never eat it at home because I know what's in it, and I don't eat it away from home because I don't know what's in it."

"Disgold" a Substitute for Gold.

The Swedish cheap jewelry alloy called "Disgold" is claimed to combine the color and luster of gold with the hardness and durability of steel, also to have great resistance to the action of acids and alkalis. It seems to be an aluminum bronze with copper in varying proportions up to 90 per cent. It is stated to be a good substitute for German silver, which contains considerable nickel as well as copper, with small amounts of aluminum and zinc.

Big Cats Like Catnip, Too.

We have all heard that cats like catnip. It remained for government scientists to apply this knowledge practically to the big cats. They found the hunting of mountain lions and bobcats with dogs and guns to prevent destruction of Western cattle was an expensive proposition. Then they thought of catnip. Large quantities of this aromatic herb were raised. From this chemists extracted the oil which gives it its odor. Now it is no longer necessary to look up the lions. They walk right into traps scented with catnip oil.

LONE TOUCHDOWN WINS FOR K. H. S.

Local Eleven Takes Second Place in Duo League by Beating Newburgh 6 to 0—Carroll Scores in First Period of Muddy Struggle.

Kingston High School defeated

Newburgh Academy in a muddy battle at the Fair Grounds Saturday, thereby taking second place in the Duo League. Both teams played well, but Coach Stroup's men out-classed the Newburghers just enough to come out one touchdown ahead.

The lone touchdown of the locals was made by "Red" Carroll after about three minutes of playing. This touchdown was the only score of the game, although the locals threatened the Newburgh goal line more than once thereafter, and if the field had been in any condition the locals would have scored a few more times.

The field was muddy and heavy and prevented the back field from getting away on many long runs. Vogt played a plucky game and broke away for three long runs in the first period, giving a good exhibition of open field running. Anderson, Bailey and Goldberg also did some good work, carrying the ball. The line played well although each man was outweighed quite a bit. There were not many thrills in the game after the first half.

Kilmartin kicked off for Newburgh to Bailey on the local's 18-yard line. Bailey ran the ball back 25 yards to his own 13-yard line. On the next play Vogt broke away for the first of his long end runs and ran for 20 yards putting the ball on Newburgh's 27-yard line. Vogt then threw an 18-yard forward pass to "Red" Carroll, who ran 19 yards for a touchdown. The try for point after touchdown failed.

Newburgh was dazzled and amazed at this outburst of speed. Kilmartin again kicked off to Kingston's 22-yard line, where Messinger received it. An attempted forward pass and two line plunges failed. So Vogt kicked 39 yards to Lampach. Newburgh failed to make a first down and Kilmartin punted to Bailey on Kingston's 41-yard line. A forward pass, Vogt to Anderson, was unsuccessful.

Vogt broke away for his second long run and made 35 yards before he was brought down. Soon after Vogt punted, Kingston being unable to make any more gains.

Kerr and Lampach made eight yards and one yard respectively. Fogarty fumbled and lost seven yards. Kilmartin punted 30 yards to Bailey, who ran eight yards. Kingston's second forward pass was completed—Carroll making 20 yards. Anderson failed to get started on the next play and made no gain. Kingston then tried another forward pass, but failed to complete it. Anderson made 10 yards and a first down on the next play. Bailey and Anderson lost five yards, which was made up by Vogt, who made an 18-yard run. Anderson came through with another 10-yard run around end. The period ended with the ball in Kingston's possession on Newburgh's 28-yard line. The score, Kingston, 6; Newburgh, 0.

Goldberg made five yards. Bailey made four. The locals were then penalized 15 yards for illegal use of the hands. It was their third down and 16 to go. Kingston completed its third forward pass. This time Bradley caught the ball and made five yards. Anderson then took the ball for 14 yards and a first down. Bailey and Goldberg failed to gain on line plunges and a forward pass. Vogt to Anderson, failed and the ball went to Newburgh on its own 20-yard line.

Newburgh rushed the ball back a few yards and then Kilmartin punted 30 yards to Goldberg. Vogt punted 22 yards to Fogarty. Messinger cleared Kerr for a two-yard loss on the next play. Kilmartin again punted to Bailey, who ran back eight yards. Vogt made three yards. Bailey made one yard and Anderson failed to gain. Vogt then punted 35 yards to Fogarty. Lampach, Fogarty and Kerr made a total 11 yards and a first down. Lampach made nine yards.

A whistle blew ending the half with the ball in possession of Newburgh. The score still 6 to 0 in favor of the locals.

Vogt kicked off to Kerr on Newburgh's 23-yard line. Kilmartin and Vogt exchanged punts after both teams failed to gain. Kilmartin punted again to Anderson. A forward pass to Bradley failed. Goldberg and Vogt failed to gain on line plunges. Another forward pass to Bradley failed and the ball was given to Newburgh. Kerr made 3 yards. Fogarty made 2 yards. Lampach failed to gain and Kilmartin punted 18 yards to Bailey.

Goldberg made 8 yards on an off-tackle play. Anderson made 3 yards and a first down. Bailey made no gain.

Kingston then completed another forward pass. Vogt to Goldberg, for 17 yards. Bailey made 4 yards. Anderson made 2 yards. Then Goldberg and Anderson failed to gain and the ball went to Newburgh on its own 13-yard line. Fogarty made 1 yard. Lampach was thrown by Anderson for a 3-yard loss. Kerr made 1 yard. Kilmartin punted 10 yards to Goldberg, who ran back 7 yards. Bailey made 2 yards and 1 yard. Vogt made no gain. The third period ended with the ball in Kingston's possession on Newburgh's 23-yard line.

Tetley went in for Vogt, who had been hurt in the third period.

Famous Scotland Yard.

Scotland Yard is the name of the building that houses the Metropolitan police force of London, England. Old Scotland Yard was a group of buildings surrounding a courtyard at the southeast corner of Charing Cross. It derived its name from a palace assigned in early English history to Scottish kings as their residence whenever they should desire to visit London. New Scotland Yard is on the Thames embankment and has been the police headquarters since 1890. The Metropolitan police force is not a private organization but has police jurisdiction over an area of practically 700 square miles around London.

Flowers and Palm Sunday.

Palm Sunday customs formerly included the sanctification of flowers and branches of palm, or boughs of various trees when palm could not be procured, and the flowers and branches were then distributed and carried in procession after being fumigated with frankincense from censers. After the Reformation Henry VIII declared the carrying of palms on this day to be one of the ceremonies not to be condoned or dropped, and the custom still holds, palm from Spain being available, though not in such demand as in parts of the continent, and falling far below flowers in public estimation.

Hypnotism.

The terms hypnotism, mesmerism, and animal magnetism have been variously applied to designate a mysterious force emanating from one individual, and inducing in another person peculiar nervous conditions in which the body and mind are supposed to be influenced. The phenomena of animal magnetism were supposed to be due to some kind of magnetic force or influence peculiar to living beings, and analogous to the action of a magnet upon steel. The name mesmerism was given to the phenomena in honor of one of the earliest investigators, F. A. Mesmer, a German physician.

Wild to Go Out.

"I understand the audience went wild when you got up to speak." "Yes. For a time I was afraid some of them would be crushed to death in the exits."

Disease Germs.

Disease germs are tiny, little organisms that have to eat to live no less than human beings. That's why they die so quickly in dry, clean places.
